“CHILLING IN ITS INTIMACY.”

—CHICAGO READER

“GRIPPING!”

—HOLLYWOOD REPORTER

“Canet is fantastic at opening up more and more of the secret chambers in this frightening man’s heart.”

—EYE FOR FILM

The chilling true story of notorious serial killer Alain Lamare (here renamed Frank Neuhart). Lamare exclusively targeted young women, while simultaneously trying to start a love affair with his pretty cleaning lady (Ana Girardot, THE RETURNED). In a truly mordant twist, while Lamare (Guillaume Canet, WAR OF THE BUTTONS) was terrorizing France in the winter of 1978, he was also an outstanding police officer tasked with apprehending the killer.

Director Cédric Anger follows in the footsteps of Friedkin and Fincher in divesting all glamour from crime, instead showing the dead ends that vex the authorities and the evil that plagues the killer. Featuring an evocative period soundtrack that includes Johnny Thunder and the Velvet Underground.
