

"EYE-OPENING, DEEPLY HUMAN, STRIKINGLY LENSED."

—VARIETY

One of his generation's most important documentary filmmakers, director Wang Bing is at the height of his powers in THREE SISTERS. The film introduces viewers to 10-year-old YingYing, 6-year-old Zhenzhen and 4-year-old Fenfen, who live alone in Xiyangtang, a tiny rural village in the high mountains of China's Yunnan province. Their father is away working in the city; their mother left the family long ago.

Wang's hand-held footage beautifully captures the region's dramatic landscapes and plunging, mountainous scenery in THREE SISTERS, an essential part of the international film canon.

Wang Bing has been a leading documentary filmmaker of the burgeoning independent documentary scene in China for the past decade. He is recognized as one of the most important Chinese artists and filmmakers of his time.

DVD includes a 12 page booklet with essay on Wang Bing's career by Nick Pinkerton

✓ Critics Pick

"Documents extreme poverty in rural China with the compassionate eye and inexhaustible patience of a director whose curiosity about his country's unfortunates never seems to wane."

—THE NEW YORK TIMES
