This landmark box set comprises 16 works by filmmaker and multimedia artist Bill Morrison, called "one of the most adventurous American filmmakers" by Variety. Morrison's work is characterized by his original approach to found, often decaying film footage, and his close collaboration with leading contemporary composers, including Vijay Iyer, Jóhann Jóhannsson and Bill Frisell. Among other films this set includes his acclaimed masterpiece DECASIA (2002), a collaboration with the composer Michael Gordon, selected to the US Library of Congress' 2013 National Film Registry, now on Blu-ray, and nine films never before available on DVD, including his most recent film RE:AWAKENINGS, with historic footage of Oliver Sacks and his "Awakenings" patients, and a score by Philip Glass.
